PORTRAYING THE CULTURE OF KOREA

Korean art is very unique to Chennai and has a special place in the city. This week witness Korean Quintet, an exhibition of contemporary paintings by five promising Korean painters. Their styles, moods and tonalities are varied and uncommon. The first artist is Son Yoo Kyung, who draws inspiration from peonies, a flowering plant. According to the artist, it is said that in the Asian culture, the peony denotes wealth and success. Next is Kim Myung Soo, who draws inspiration from the temple's dancheong colour. But what is dancheong? It is a Korean decorative styling technique of colouring wooden buildings and artifacts. Lee Dam draws on the canvas and gives life to everything that exists in the world, by giving them a beautiful shape. Kim Seok Jung, is an art and science researcher at the National Museum of Contemporary Art. His work follows a semi-abstract style that is based on the artist's own philosophies. Finally, Kim Sook focuses on fidelity to realism and natural aesthetics while aiming to express the ideas that occur in her mind through her interaction with nature.
