A movie on the effects of violence on a young man's life

The InKo Centre is having a screening of "Breathless", a film directed by Yang Ik-Joo. It will be held on November 26 at 7 p.m.

Breathless focuses on Sang-hoon as both a product and a perpetrator of mindless savagery. He works as a strong arm man for a debt collection agency, and is in it less for the rewards than for the violence itself. He runs into school student Yeon Hee in the street, a girl as fearless as Sang-hoon himself. The two soon become the most unlikely of friends, snatching moments of stillness in each other's company. Trouble brews as Sang-hoon starts teaching his trade to another young man.

Entry is free. InKo Centre is at 51, 6th Main Road, R A Puram. For details, call 2436 1224.
